George *was born in California in 1944. When he was a high school student, he was interested in many things. For example, comic books, rock music, movies, and cars. He loved cars the most and he wanted to be *a racing car driver.

One day just before his *graduation, his *life *changed. He had a bad car *accident and almost *died. He had to *give up his dream of becoming a racing driver. Then he went to a *college and started to make movies with his friends. Finally he changed to a *university to learn more about movies. He always did his best.

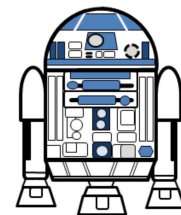

He was going to *join the Air Force after his graduation, but his dreams didn't *come true. He couldn't join the Air Force because he got too many *speeding tickets. He had to change his *goal again.

He *kept making movies at university. In 1968 one of his short movies *got a prize at a film festival. It was the start of his life as a great *moviemaker. "Star Wars" is one of his most famous movies.

Now he is at the top of the world of movies.

*George Lucas changed his *way of life every time he *failed. His movies give us power to change our way of life, too.
